

The hassle free way to find your next home

Moving home is one of the most stressful things you can do. The use of relocation agents began to appear in London around 10 years ago, but they have been made popular through television programmes like Location, Location, Location and their benefits are becoming more widely appreciated. The East Midlands has its very own home search and relocation agency.

Wefindhomes.co.uk has been established for a number of years and was founded by Simon Himsworth. The specialists provide a confidential home search and relocation service to busy families and professionals, helping to save time, money and to remove many of the stresses and pains of moving home.

This is an individual service that doesn't just rely on internet property search engines. In fact Simon Himsworth said "You simply can't beat calling and recalling all the agents in the area and maintaining that rapport to ensure you are the first people they contact when something new, quirky or special comes onto the market. This is something that's really difficult to do when you are working or running a busy family home."

For those new to the area or who are looking to buy a holiday home, using a relocation agent can have other added benefits too. Spending every weekend viewing houses in a different part of the country and trying to work out which are the up and coming areas can be a very time consuming and stressful experience. wefindhomes.co.uk do all this for you, they'll will show you how to maximise your budget and even handle the negotiations.

Most people relocating do so because of either a change of work or lifestyle. Simon added "employers naturally focus on relocating the employee. But those who also provide support to the employee's family will often find their employee is more productive quicker, as well as having a family that is settled within the region, so our corporate clients see other business benefits too."

We find homes home search service offers a free initial consultation to discuss a client's perfect home. This is followed by a thorough search of the market, undertaking first viewings and a subsequent report of the recommended shorted list of properties that meet your requirements. They then assist with second viewings and importantly provide a professional negotiation on the purchase and follow through the process all the way through to exchange of contracts and onto completion.
